
Voiplex GlobalTalk - Multi-party conferencing made easy!

The Voiplex GlobalTalk is a secure and easy to use multi-party conferencing facility that allows you to host conferences with participants from all over the world, from the comfort of your office or home or from your mobile. You can use it for team meetings, management updates, training programmes, product launches or company announcements without having to go beyond your phone!

All you need to do is register, create a conference and start conferencing instantly! What's more you have the option to use the same conference details again or create multiple conferences from your account. All this can be done online!

Each conference room you create can have one or more dial-in numbers associated with it. For e.g. if you want to organise a conference with participants in UK, Singapore and the US, you can associate a local UK number, a Singapore number and a US number to the same conference room. This means that all participants only dial in local numbers to join the conference
